PREFACE.

We herewith present to the public our second number of the Malden, Medford, Melrose, and Everett Directory. The several towns have been carefully canvassed, and the large increase in the number of names over the previous volume, is an evidence of thoroughness on our part, and also of the rapid growth of the towns in population and wealth. The work will be published biennially, and we hope to make such additions from time to time, as shall make it valuable as a book of reference, and indispensable to every citizen and business man.

Our Advertising Department contains the cards of many of the most enterprising and reliable business houses of these towns to which we would call especial attention.

We return our sincere thanks to the officers of these towns for valuable assistance rendered, and to the business men and citizens generally, for the polite and courteous manner in which our agents were invariably treated.

Hoping the directory will meet with the approval of all who may have occasion to refer to it, we remain,

Yours, very respectfully,

Greenough, Jones & Co.

THE UNDERSIGNED RESPECTFULLY PRESENTS HIS ANNUAL CARD, PROPOSING TO INSURE THE LIVES AND PROPERTY OF THE CITIZENS OF MALDEN.

If any Insurance is desirable, that is most so which is afforded at the lowest rate, consistent with undoubted security.

In Life Insurance the all cash rates adopted by the Travelers Co., of Hartford, and the Mutual Benefit Co., of New Jersey, are two-thirds only of the rates charged by what are called the dividend paying companies. Policies obtained immediately.

In Fire Insurance, the subscriber is qualified to make Policies in the Ætna Co., of Hartford (assets six millions), and in the Peoples Ins. Co. of Worcester, Mass., both first class Stock Companies.

The cheapest insurance on buildings and contents (and as reliable as any other), is afforded by the following First Class Mutual Companies:

			On 1 Year Policies.			On 5 Year Policies.
CAMBRIDGE	MUTUAL,	Cambridge,	50	per cent.	Dividend.	40	per cent.	Dividend.
